Trial Question

Before filing a lawsuit in 2004 against X in the US District Court of Massachusetts, the group of 3 students (Tyler, Cameron, Divya Narendra) attempted to have their college admin resolve the issue. The group claimed,

“College Handbook clearly states that students should be honest and forthcoming in their dealings with members in this community. We had an idea for a website called ConnectU, but X stole it – thereby violating the code of conduct. Please take disciplinary action against X and block his website”

However, College President Lawrence Summers viewed this matter out of college’s jurisdiction.

At the time of filing the lawsuit, X’s website had 300k users from about 100 colleges, while ConnectU had only 15k users.

The screenshot shows the Harvard College Handbook for Students 2020-2021 website. At the top is the Harvard crest. To its right, the title "Harvard College Handbook for Students" and subtitle "Handbook for Students 2020-2021" are displayed. Below the title is a navigation bar with links: HOME / DOCUMENTS / WELCOME / GENERAL REGULATIONS / Conduct Within the Community. A "TABLE OF CONTENTS" section lists "Welcome", "Introduction", "Academic Calendar", "Academic Information", "General Regulations", and "Conduct Within the Community". The main content area is titled "Conduct Within the Community" and contains a paragraph about fostering an environment together. On the left, a large blue circle contains the text "Rules of the Quiz". On the right, there is a list of rules: "No cheating!", "Most questions are easy and can be cracked", and "Please avoid Google Search, Reverse Image Search". There is also a small icon of three stylized human figures.

Q2. Backstory: Madan Mohan Malviya went to the Nizam of Hyderabad (who happened to be one of the richest men the world at that time) asking for a donation. The Nizam was annoyed at the gesture and flung his footwear at Madan. Madan picked up the footwear and left silently. He came directly to the marketplace and began to auction the footwear. When Nizam heard of this, he became uneasy. He thought it would be an insult if his footwear were to be bought by someone for pittance. So, he sent one of his attendants with the instruction to buy his footwear no matter what the bidding price may be!

Question: Thus Malviya, managed to sell the Nizam's own footwear to him, for a huge amount. For what purpose did he use that money?

- In Japanese culture it is widely believed that X brings good luck to thousands of high school students who sit for their entrance examinations to gain an admission into Japan's top universities because co-incidentally X in Japanese translates to "You shall surely win" or "Be Victorious".
- Y (manufacturers of X) responded to this fortuitous linguistic association by producing for the Japanese market special types of X that carry additional exam-related symbols on their packaging.

Also, when the Japan Postal service was being privatized, Y seized an opportunity and created a business model that didn't exist before. Y partnered with the newly privatized post office and created a new package of X that could be posted, called X Mail. People could write their message on the packaging, put a stamp on it and put it in the mail. Many post office branches during exams decorate their stores with X branding which has now become a part of their culture.

Q2. What are X and Y?

Hint: Good Food, Good Life!

Q4. Identify the movie. The following are some snippets from a documentary on the movie's making.

- “We were shooting in sync sound. The nearby area had an airbase and lots of jet planes flew around; delaying our shoot by 20 minutes every time. The desert sand and windspeeds > 20 km/hr made outdoor shooting incredibly difficult” (Nikhil Kamte, Sound Designer)
- “We had to stop shooting whenever there were clouds” (Anil Mehta, Cinematographer)
- “We scheduled and shot scenes with more than 10,000 villagers in one single day. We arranged costumes for them too. Other set members wore similar costumes since the cameras were all around.” (Apoorv Lakhia, 1st Assistant Director)
- There were more than 1200 shots for the climax; spanning around 25 minutes.
 - “We had to run bare foot; it was 47-48 deg; water was scarce” (Raghbir Yadav, actor)
 - “I had to dive in horizontally into the frame; missed several times and injured myself” (Yashpal Sharma, actor)
- The building where the crew stayed for more than 6 months during the shoot was destroyed in the Bhuj earthquake.

Connect the hints:

These two BROS like, Mario and Luigi, became the super smash BROS which lead to the foundation of two leading companies in a certain product. But as Mario and Luigi developed a rivalry, these two companies are the biggest rivals today. We all have heard their names and used their product. Guess the company names.
